HISTORY

In 1991, a group of neighbors created an organization to develop affordable housing, preserve historic buildings, and revitalize the Old Sixth Ward, a National Register Historic District in the shadow of Houston’s downtown. Old Sixth Ward CDC, as it was then known, was operated entirely by volunteers for the first four years. Since then, our staff has grown to seven full-time employees, and our Board includes 16 community leaders. At the request of civic organizations from surrounding neighborhoods, by 1999 we had expanded our target area to include the entire Near Northside and Washington Avenue communities, directly north and northwest of Houston’s downtown. We changed our name to Avenue CDC to reflect this expanded target area. We now serve the greater Houston metropolitan area.
